

SIX-WORD STORY COMPETITION!

In the 1920s, author Ernest Hemingway's colleagues bet him that he couldn't write a complete story in just six words. He proved them wrong, and he is said to have considered it his best work!

As part of our World Book Day celebrations this year, we would like to invite you to create your own six-word story about anything you choose, or about an unusual object.

Here are some examples of six-word stories:

- Sandcastle for sale. Limited time offer.
- Won food fight. Used canned vegetables.
- Rock bottom? Hey, I like climbing!
- New year, new hair, new me!
- Went abroad. Finally felt like home.
- Disputes between nations. Sorrow among families.

The best ones from each school will win a prize and these will be announced on World Book Day, on Thursday 2nd March 2023.

Please make sure entries are emailed into school by Thursday 16th February 2023.

Feel free to do some research to help you, but please ensure that your six-word stories are your own ideas, not directly taken from the internet for example.

There will be prizes for the best six-word story from KS1/R, Year 3 & 4 and Year 5 & 6 across our TMPF family of schools, and the winning stories will be published on our website.

Happy six-word story creating!

Mrs Roberts ☺
